

ICPC Live Spectator Viewing

ICPC Live is producing live stream and commentary in English (technical), another English (untechnical), Russian, Arabic, Chinese, and possibly Hindi available online only. ICPC Live broadcast will guide participants through the ACM-ICPC World Finals, keep viewers updated on competition progress, and show insider information including footage of the team area stations. Live stream spectator viewing with English commentary will be provided by ICPC staff in the Lower Rushmore Hall A, B, C, & D in the Rushmore Plaza Civic Center.

ICPC Team Area Stations

Signs for the 134 Team Area Stations have been printed by Simpson's Printing. The sharp-looking signs have the team university name and are easy to install. Team Area dividers were cut and constructed to ensure sturdy design with the assistance of Tim Shatraw, Jimmy Hinker, Jessica Teeslink, and Paul Hinker, pictured to the right. Special thanks to SDSM&T professor and ECP Board Member, Paul Hinker for coordinating technical plans and logistics with the ICPC Ops Team from wire diagrams to Technical Plans to Team Area Stations.

Time Lapse of 2017 ACM-ICPC World Finals

Pat Hynan with ICPC News will be recording activities in the Ice Arena to produce a time lapse. The time-lapse will include the build out, competition and breakdown of the Team Area Stations. The footage will be available at www.youtube.com/icpcnews after conclusion of events.

211 Helpline

ECP has contracted with the 211 Helpline Center to provide ICPC information and emergency assistance. The 211 Helpline becomes active today and will be available to all ICPC participants 24/7 to answer questions and provide information. You are encouraged to use this service if you need information or assistance.
